AIM

To build the knowledge, skills, and attitudes of stakeholders in order to design, implement, and monitor social protection measures that are inclusive, gender-sensitive, and responsive to the unique vulnerabilities of migrant workers, ensuring their equitable access to rights, entitlements, and decent work conditions.

OBJECTIVES

1. Knowledge & Understanding – (i) understand the linkages between gender, migration, and social protection, (ii) discuss international labour standards, CEDAW, GCM, SDGs, and their relevance for migrant workers' social protection, (iii) review India's social protection framework (labour codes, e-Shram, ESIC, state schemes, bilateral agreements) with a gender lens.
2. Evidence & Analysis – (i) familiarise participants with current data sources and evidence on migrant workers (e.g., PLFS, NSSO, Census, e-Shram, ILO databases), (ii) train participants in using gender-disaggregated data for evaluating policy impacts, (iii) expose participants to case studies showing successes and limitations in gender-responsive social protection for migrants.
3. Skills & Application – (i) develop capacity to conduct gender-responsive needs assessments for migrant workers, (ii) build skills in designing inclusive social protection interventions, integrating gender and migration, (iii) train participants in monitoring & evaluation (M&E) tools that incorporate gender-responsive indicators.
4. Policy & Practice – (i) enable participants to identify barriers migrant women face in accessing social protection (documentation, portability, awareness, discrimination), (ii) explore strategies for mainstreaming gender in labour policies, (iii) strengthen understanding of coordination between government, state welfare boards, employers, trade unions, and NGOs in delivering GRSP.
5. Outcomes & Leadership – (i) empower participants to translate evidence into advocacy and programme recommendations, (ii) encourage participants to prepare action plans that they can take back to their organisations, states, or sectors.
